

Price of outdoor distribution box crossbar

Article Overview

The price of an outdoor distribution box crossbar varies widely, typically ranging from $50 to several hundred dollars per unit depending on specifications, material, and customization.

Estimated Price Range

Outdoor distribution boxes, including crossbar types, generally cost $50 to $300 for standard units suitable for residential or light commercial use, while larger, industrial-grade, or highly customized units can exceed $500 or more per unit depending on the number of circuits, amperage capacity, and IP rating (IP65/IP66/IP67) for weatherproofing . Wholesale or bulk orders often reduce the per-unit cost significantly .

Factors Affecting Price

- Material and Construction: ABS plastic, galvanized steel, or stainless steel enclosures affect durability and cost. Weatherproof and corrosion-resistant materials command higher prices .
- IP Rating: Higher ingress protection (IP65/IP66/IP67) ensures dust and water resistance, increasing the price .
- Number of Circuits/Way: More circuits or DIN rail slots increase complexity and cost. For example, a 12-way DIN rail box is priced higher than a 6-way unit .
- Customization: OEM branding, busbar modifications, top cable entry, and modular designs can raise the price .
- Installation and Accessories: Mounting hardware, breakers, and internal components may add to the total cost
